We can offer you the opportunity to undertake a bespoke Return to Practice course for General Practice Nurses.

The Return to Practice course for General Practice Nurses is offered at a number of universities and incorporates the existing return to practice course (required by the NMC for Re-registration) and an Introduction to the role of a GP Nurse.

The course will be open to all previously registered nurses with relevant experience in all fields of nursing, and of course previously registered Practice Nurses are very welcome to apply for this bespoke course too.

Find out all you need to know on the Health Careers website. [6]

Return to general practice nursing [6]

You may need to undertake a return to practice programme if you've previously been a registered nurse and wish to return to the profession.
