

Can you help find the Champion of the NHS Constitution?

Do you know someone who exemplifies NHS values, is a role model for others, inspires people to live the values of the NHS Constitution, and whose behaviour makes improvements happen?

Health Education England (HEE) is currently searching for its Champion of the NHS Constitution, one of the 13 categories of its recently-launched Healthcare Education and Training (HEAT) Awards.

Get involved

Perhaps you have a colleague who has delivered ground breaking work to ensure the patient voice is heard (working together for patients)? Or know someone who has taken steps to build awareness of cultural needs within your organisation (respect and dignity)? You may know someone who has delivered a project to help ensure family and carers are more closely involved in decisions (everyone counts)?

We want to hear about individuals who are living and breathing NHS values to guide decisions and ensure patients remains at the core.

Nominate a colleague

To find out more and to make a nomination, go to www.hee.nhs.uk/heatawards

The closing date is 12 April.

HEE will announce the winner of the award during NHS Values Week (15-18 July), a system-wide initiative aimed at bringing to life and celebrating NHS values.
